GFGS CENTENARY CELEBRATION LECTURE

The GFGS Centenary Celebration Open Lecture with Timothy Walker former director of Oxford Botanic Garden & Harcourt Arboretum, will be held in the Boutflour Hall at the Royal Agricultural University, Cirencester at 2pm on Saturday 22 September 2018. Tickets are £6 including a free raffle

WHAT HAVE PLANTS EVER DONE FOR US?

Rarely does a minute go by when we are not involved in an activity that would be impossible without the help of plants. This talk looks at mankind's dependence on plants for everything from food to film and from painkillers to paint. It also examines the ways in which our exploitation of plants could keep up with demand from an increasing global population and what we as individuals can do to help future generations.
